

Regarding fees for renewing vanity amateur radio callsigns, I take exception to the statement that additional expense is incurred in renewals. After a vanity callsign is issued, it should fit into the renewal process just as a regularly issued callsign renewal. I see this as circumventing the prohibition of charging for call sign issuance and should be free after the initial application/approval.